Response Beyond His Hopes

Large number of boys in North Saanich and Sidney are looking for employment during the summer months. When a resident of North Saanich advertised last week for a school boy to cut his lawn he was overwhelmed with the response.

Sewer stoppage on Lochside Drive which occurred on Tuesday evening forced the blacktop road up and broke the heavy concrete of a catch basin.

The sewage threw a manhole cover clear at the intersection of the two roads and ran across the road to the beach.

HOLIDAY CRASH SENDS NURSE TO HOSPITAL

A nurse at Rest Haven Hospital finished up a patient last Wednesday, July 1, after her car went out of control on the Patricia Bay Highway near the Central Saanich-North Saanich boundary.

Wanda Chung, R.N., received chest injuries and bruises in the one-car mishap and was rushed to Rest Haven by Central Saanich ambulance, which a few minutes before had been in the Dominion Day parade in Sidney.

Miss Chung was the sole occupant of the car. She was travelling south on the highway when her car went out of control and crashed head-on into a rock bluff. The car, a 1964 model, was extensively damaged.

Ron Dawson, of the Kinsmen Club of Sidney, directed the parade and marshalling point.

Arrival of the parade in good time at the park placed the ensuing schedule a little ahead of itself until it fell back into position after lunch.

Queen Joan Gardner was crowned by retiring queen, Miss P.N.E., Linda Danna. With her princesses, Daphne Greave and Anna Jeffrey she will take over the reign of royal office until next summer. Also taking part in the ceremony, when the master of ceremonies was the only male in sight, were Pixie Thorburn,

PILOTS

They Are Far From Home Now

Eight air cadets at Patricia Bay Airport were without a place to go at the week-end. The boys are among those undertaking flying training at the airport on a scholarship from the Royal Canadian Air Force. They will be without a place to go to next week-end. If any family in the district should be interested in offering Sunday dinner to a young man a long way from home the invitation may be extended through the commanding officer of the Sidney Air Cadets squadron, Flt. Lt. J. R. Hannan, at 475-2636 or squadron adjutant, F.O. Ken Cantwell, 475-2095.

New Sign For New Terminal

New sign, standing beside a new road, now announces the entrance to Victoria's new air terminal at Patricia Bay Airport. Finishing touches are presently being applied to the terminal and official opening date has been set for August 14. New control tower on the east side of the airport, adjacent to the old terminal, is also expected to be opened at the same time. Road to the new terminal has been constructed off East Saanich Road, just south of Canora Road.

HOLIDAY TRAGEDY

RUNAWAY CAR THROWS FOUR-YEAR-OLD TO DEATH

A four-year-old Indian girl was killed instantly on July 1 when she was thrown from a runaway car at the Cole Bay Reserve.

Dominion Day accident took the life of Darleen Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Henry, 9825 West Saanich Road.

The youngster was playing with an older brother and sister, Thomas, seven, and Joan, nine, in their father's parked car at the top of a steep driveway. One of the children apparently put the gearshift to neutral causing the car to roll backwards down the driveway onto West Saanich Road where it swung around and plunged down the hill into the home of Ernie Henry, no relation of the victim.

Thomas and Joan managed to get out of the car when it started rolling, and ran to tell their father. Darleen was thrown through a door of the car and struck her head on a rock at the side of the road. She was dead when Sidney R.C.M.P. arrived a few minutes later. Mishap occurred about 6.15 p.m. Inquiry into the accident was later conducted by Coroner D. G. Ashby. Rites for the burial of children,

ON DOMINION DAY

SIDNEY FESTIVITIES ARE WARMLY HAILED AS CROWDS SWARM TO PARK

Celebrations opened with a flourish on Wednesday when the Memorial Park on Beacon Ave. came back into use for the annual festivities in Sidney.

Parade, which had been scheduled to start off from Tulista Park, was hurriedly switched to St. Paul's Church on Malview. Change expected to last-minute detrimental influence on the parade. Entries came in from the Sidney area and from a wide range beyond.

Ron Dawson, of the Kinsmen Club of Sidney, directed the parade and marshalling point.

Arrival of the parade in good time at the park placed the ensuing schedule a little ahead of itself until it fell back into position after lunch.

Queen Joan Gardner was crowned by retiring queen, Miss P.N.E., Linda Danna. With her princesses, Daphne Greave and Anna Jeffrey she will take over the reign of royal office until next summer. Also taking part in the ceremony, when the master of ceremonies was the only male in sight, were Pixie Thorburn,

VOTE LOOMS

—In North Saanich

An election is looming in North Saanich. Hon. D. R. J. Campbell, British Columbia's minister of municipalities, has directed that a vote be taken in the unorganized territory before the middle of August. At the time electors will choose a candidate to represent North Saanich on the proposed new capital region authority embracing all the municipalities and unorganized territories in the south of Vancouver Island.

At the same time the reeve of Central Saanich and the chairman of the Sidney village council have been invited by the minister to represent their respective municipalities at the organizational meeting of the new authority. It is suggested that the new body will begin to function by the middle of August and that new legislation affecting the area will be brought before the next session of the B.C. legislature.

Name of the returning officer for the North Saanich election has not been announced. Neither has the date of the vote.

The services which have been suggested as the ones requiring tackling on a regional basis are sewage and garbage disposal, parks and recreation, planning, health and hospitals.

SOMETHING FISHY?

But Delight For Gourmets

There is something fishy about the most recent plans of the Kinsmen Club of Sidney. The club is sponsoring a seafood fiesta at Tulista Park on Sunday afternoon. Fish food fans will have the choice of every fish dish native to the area. The courses will commence with clam chowder. Then will be laid out a wide range of sea food for the gourmet. Although essentially looking for the connoisseur of sea foods, the Kinsmen are prepared to cater to anyone who eats. Tulista Park is located on the waterfront at Weiler and Lochside, immediately south of the Anacortes ferry wharf.

Clearing

Work commenced on Wednesday at the new extension property of the Sidney and North Saanich Volunteer Fire Department fire hall. Levelling of the site was started on Wednesday.

Building has been a number of years in the planning and building and represents the most westerly airport terminal of the airline.

Plenty Of Tourists But No Summer

Tourists are coming to Vancouver Island this summer even if decent summer weather is not.

During June, 8,479 passengers arrived in Sidney from the United States. They travelled in 2,595 automobiles and all but 754 of the passengers were foreign.

As usual, there were less leaving Canada via Sidney than arriving here from the United States. Total of 6,159 outgoing passengers were counted at Sidney, 1,210 being Canadian.

Monthly figures compiled by the customs and excise branch of the department of national revenue also indicate that 106 yachts and cruisers passed through Sidney, inward bound from foreign waters during June. Of this total, 78 of the vessels were foreign.

Recent increase to four ferry trips daily between Sidney and Anacortes, together with school closing, should boost travel between the two points considerably in July.

Wrinkles Ironed Out Of Butchart's Sunset Show

By BILL CHATTERTON

Fourth season of Sunset Shows opened at the Butchart Gardens on July 1, with most of the past seasons' production wrinkles pleasingly ironed out.

Opening the 1964 season was the sparkling musical revue, Romance and Rhythm, which will be featured every Wednesday and Friday during July.

Undoubtedly the greatest improvement this year is the sound reproduction. Listening to a concert in previous years was somewhat a touch-and-go experience as a large stage and spacious outdoor setting made reproduction of sound difficult. Detailed planning and experimenting during the past few months has paid off handsomely.

LIGHTING

Similar improvements have been effected with new lighting techniques, and a small combo seated below and in front of the stage instead of a lone piano at one side considerably enhances the program.

The show itself was gay and lively and lacked only one thing—a good emcee. There is plenty of color, action and music in Romance and Rhythm. The Varsity Singers and four-piece orchestra of George Fairfield provide pleasant background to the soloists and actually tie the individual numbers together. But a sprightly emcee would contribute much to the revue.

WELL-RECEIVED

One of the best-received performances was given by Victoria's famous ballad and folk singer, Murray McAlpine. By himself, he drew the most laughter from the audience with his humorous version of Galway Bay. He was joined in several numbers by Robin Ross and the pair delivered a very harmonious version of Jimmie Rodgers' former hit, Kisses Sweeter Than Wine. (Incidentally, Murray McAlpine can be heard Monday to Friday for the summer months over radio C-FAX at 5.55 p.m.

Dancing makes up a considerable portion of Romance and Rhythm, with some 20 of the Theatrical Arts Dancers spiritedly following the choreography of Bebe Eversfield.

VARSITY SINGERS

The Varsity Singers are onstage for the entire program, under the direction of their conductor, Rodney Webster. In their first Sunset Show for this summer, they carried their heavy singing load extremely well. Microphones picked up all the voices in the choir, down to a mere whisper.

Soprano soloist Terry Cain, who will be heard at the Gardens throughout the summer along with special appearances with the orchestra of Fred Usher, gave flawless interpretations to such numbers as Lover and Come Love. A smaller but no less energetic version of Sophie Tucker was Mary Grant who had the audience singing along as she belted out favorites like Bye-Bye Black Bird, Bill Bailey and Gotta See Your Mamma.

ARRANGEMENT

Also giving outstanding performances in a variety of roles were Virginia Lefever, Michael Schneider, Roy Silver and Francis Christensen. Music for the entire show was arranged skillfully by Chet Lambertson.

Many hours of preparation and practice on the part of all entertainers, as well as those responsible for the technical aspects of the production, were evident. Setting for the concerts would be hard to beat from both spectators' and performers' point of view, as this is probably the finest outdoor theatre in Canada.

TRIPLE VALUE

The evening concerts at Butchart Gardens are designed to bridge the gap between sunlight and night lights, and by doing this actually give visitors triple their money's worth. By coming to the Gardens shortly before or after supper, the visitor is treated to acres of flowers in the daylight, followed by a superb concert (which alone is worth the admission charge), and then, before leaving, he may view the Gardens illuminated by hundreds of hidden lights.

Local residents who complain that the admission is "way too high" should bear this in mind. They think little of paying twice the price just for a concert at an indoor theatre.

MORE ABOUT WAR VETERAN

Bill said, "But I said 'nothing doing.'" Then he had chuckled as he added, "I was a good man to have in the army and they knew it!" It was no idle boast—Bill was a good army man and had an excellent war record.

The last few years of his life Bill lived in a small cottage at Fulford, just above the docks. He is survived by his widow, Alice Susanna, who is a favorite with all.

During the last few years, Bill suffered a lot and had four or more major operations. He was well looked after by his cheerful and loyal wife who worked with few conveniences in the house. She had to pump water into the sink from outside daily. But Alice never let Bill down and has done more than her best in caring for him.

A word about Alice: she is deaf and wears an earphone—"It cost me

SAANICHTON

Mrs. J. Thomson is back at her home on Mount Newton Cross Road, after spending the past five weeks with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hogue, Vancouver; and her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. R. Thomson, New Westminster.

J. K. Bryce, Oldfield Road, has had his nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. S. Norris, Prestwick, Scotland, visiting him for the past week. They left on Tuesday for Calgary and plan to see the "Stampede". Mr. Bryce will join them later in Regina for a visit with relatives and friends.

Mrs. A. Hunter, with daughters Linda, Karen, Miriam and Sandra, of Powell River, is visiting her mother, Mrs. H. Facey, Calpine Auto Court, and also while here, Mrs. Hunter and girls are staying at the Prairie Inn.

The Misses Wendy Beaumont, June Farrell and Judy Rossell are at Camp Columbia, Thetis Island, along with some 65 other 12 and 13-year-old girls from various points on Vancouver Island. Mr. and Mrs. L. Farrell drove the three girls to Chemainus on Monday, June 29, where they joined the other children and caught their ferry for Thetis Island. The girls will be returning home on Friday, July 10.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Tennant and family, Calgary, left for home on

A Saanich service station now has a new manager and a partly new name.

John Grieve, of Saanich, took over operation of the Mount Newton B-A Garage on July 1 and it is now known as Mount Newton B-A Service and Welding. Mr. Grieve succeeds D. C. "Doc" Woodward and Jim Aspinall, who had jointly operated the popular station for seven years.

The new manager, who has lived at Saanich all of his 23 years, formerly operated Saanich Welding and Repairs. He will continue to offer all types of welding services from the service station. To accommodate his welding equipment he plans to expand the station possibly next fall.

Mr. Grieve has gained wide automotive experience working at various service stations in this district during the past seven years. He has been a member of the Central Saanich Volunteer Fire Department for five years.

Sunday after spending the past week visiting with Mr. Tennant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Tennant, Wallace Drive.

Dr. Finlay's Casebook

Dr. Finlay's Casebook, a series of realistic medical dramas, returned to the CBC-TV network Mondays on June 29. Dr. Finlay, played by 32-year-old Bill Simpson, is a young doctor who carries on a personal fight for medical improvements against the wishes of a rather narrow-minded Scottish community of the 1920's.

$350 but I had to have it—I couldn't hear when Bill called before," she said. Alice McLean lost her hearing when she was working in No. 1 Filling Factory, in Hayes, Middlesex, England, in 1916. Mrs. McLean's job was to place the centre piece in the 18-pound shells—and inside those centre pieces lay the detonator. All workers, said Mrs. McLean, were warned not to wear any hair pins, or loose pins, or carry coins or any metal object which might fall in to the shells—but somewhere along the line—one of the workers must have forgotten. There was an explosion—and that cost Alice her hearing to this day.

Girls who worked in the T.N.T. department of the factory were called the Canaries, because their skins turned a bright canary yellow with constant contact with fumes. This disappeared after they had stopped working in the factory.

William Donald McLean was definitely one of the old soldier types; he believed thoroughly in discipline in the services.

He used to say he couldn't visualize the present day "boys" in the Forces standing up under the conditions that were once the army's lot. "If he wanted any such thing as sheets, pyjamas, underwear, we bought 'em," he told me. "And it all came out of our pay—and you couldn't buy much out of a shilling a day!"

On top of that, they paid six cents a day for rations.

"We were issued two shirts each, three pairs of socks, pants, tunic, coat, and four blankets. And those had to last us the full seven years." And that went for the bowl, knife, spoon, cup, and other utensils if they needed replacements.

During his talk about the Dongola Expedition, Bill McLean said a part of their job was to run the boats from Alexandria to Cairo; they dragged the boats over the entrance—and it was "rough going." The river was pretty bad in places, said Bill, and they found the fourth catamaran near Meroe, to be the fiercest and the worst.

He spoke of the Nile as a complicated piece of nature—with catamarans from Assuan to Khartoum, numbered from one to six—with about 31 catamarans named by the Arabs with fantastic names such as the Slave, the Muddy One, the Pardoned and the Shakers. It was during this expedition that he served under Lord Kitchener.

Knott Park Purchase Soon

Negotiations for purchase of property at Brentwood Bay for dedication as the Ron Knott Memorial Park are almost complete, as the park fund nears the minimum $5,000 goal.

Fund now stands at $4,790.16 with some money yet to be turned in, said Stan Bickford, treasurer of the fund.

Trustees of the fund agreed several months ago to purchase two acres of land located beside the Brentwood Community Hall for $4,000. Signing of papers has been delayed while the property was surveyed and an alternate route select-

Property will be primarily used as a softball field for the numerous teams in the Brentwood district. Presently, as in past years, the teams make their home grounds at the Woodward Drive diamond on the property of J. T. McKeivitt. Park is being planned to the memory of the late well-known Brentwood sportsman, Romilly L. Knott, who died in a highway mishap near Sidney four months ago.

A Crossroad

NORTH Saanich today stands at a crossroad — one of the most crucial in its long career. Its destiny may be decided for future generations by recent actions of British Columbia's new minister of municipalities, Hon. D. R. J. Campbell.

The minister had hardly taken office when he called a meeting of municipal heads and others from the entire south Vancouver Island area. At this conference he vaguely outlined a plan of semi-metropolitan government which would embrace the entire district. His proposals were met with guarded support by some of the municipal representatives. They sought more information before they could be fully informed on what was developing.

Second stage of the development is now in process of unfolding. Heads of the various municipalities have been urged to attend an organizational meeting of the new central authority in Victoria after the middle of August. We have no fears for the welfare of Central Saanich and Sidney in this new project. Elected representatives of both municipalities are well able to take care of themselves and their responsibilities.

But when it comes to North Saanich, an unorganized territory, the shoe is on the other foot. The minister has announced that a single representative will be elected by North Saanich to represent this area. To date that's the only information which has been made public. No returning officer has been announced, how nominations will be handled is not clear, what the duties of the elected representative will be has not been disclosed, neither has his remuneration nor the time and date of the election.

A Deep Cove reader, deeply concerned by the mysterious manner in which this development is taking place, has asked The Review to make the situation clear. We are happy to emphasize the seriousness of the situation. Several weeks ago this column urged the minister to amplify his plans—but since that time nothing has been heard from him.

Main objective of the new central authority is reported to be construction of a complete sewerage system for the entire Saanich Peninsula. Do the people of North Saanich want to pay for such a sewer project? On one point we can be absolutely certain: if a sewerage system is constructed in North Saanich it will be paid for by North Saanich property owners — not those of Victoria and Oak Bay. The Review cannot visualize construction of a sewerage system to cover all of North Saanich without a sharp rise in taxation.

North Saanich is an unorganized territory and, as such, is the ward of the provincial government. If the government feels that a modern system of sewers should be constructed, there is absolutely nothing to prevent it embarking on the construction job tomorrow. When the present community of Sidney was in unorganized territory, the provincial government at no cost to the property owners, constructed a valuable drainage system which is still serving as a sewer today. There is the precedent.

Is the minister using this means to force North Saanich into forming a municipality? Would it be desirable or undesirable? Answers to these questions are not readily available.

We are going to have an election. Let us prepare for it right now by readying candidates. The person chosen should be a man who will represent North Saanich fearlessly, for his responsibility will be a heavy one. He must be prepared to stand on his own feet and protect the interests of his fellow North Saanich taxpayers fully.

Meanwhile, Mr. Campbell will be well advised to issue a clearcut statement of policy so that fears of North Saanich residents may be allayed. This newspaper will be happy to publish it in full as a public service. Residents are disturbed by a recent statement credited to Mr. Campbell that deliberations of members of his new control authority will be conducted in secret. This is no time for secrecy. The unknown is always terrifying. The widest possible publicity should be given to the new scheme.

Letters To The Editor

SUPERMAN:

This evening, Friday, July 3, about 5 p.m., as I called in my pet Mallards for their evening meal, five youths and one girl came along the beach.

Most young people on the beach seem impelled for some obscure reason, to throw or hit stones into the water. One gets used to this, but what is outrageous is when they deliberately attack the wild fowl along the shores.

In the present instance these five youths, shouting and yelling, pelted the Mallards as they trustfully came in, only to be greeted by this unexpected barrage. As three drakes are in heavy moult and two ducks are only two months old, all five are unable to fly.

Before the birds could scurry beyond range, one of the little ones was hit and is now crippled.

So I expect that the distorted ego of whomever thinks he was the crack shot will burst with pride over this. He actually hit a little helpless duckling — how clever — "Big Deal!"

As this is not the first time I have written about the wanton cruelty of young people around here, I can't help wondering what their parents would think or even if they care.

Thank you for the use of your column.

BOOK REVIEW

"Nowhere Else To Go", by John Windsor. Gray's Publishing Lt. 138 pp. $2.50.

Combination of circumstances brought together a wilderness on Vancouver Island that was destined to become a flying unit, a group of disconsolate expatriates and Jerry Gosley. He ignored the wilderness and entertained the expatriates. In no time at all he was entertaining civilians as well as servicemen.

F. G. Richards

The Royal Air Force Smile Show was known up and down the west coast of Canada and the United States during its period of activity here. Sponsor of the show, already experienced in entertainment programs, was Jerry Gosley.

He later transferred his allegiance to the Royal Air Force Gang Shows under Ralph Reader, where he gained an intensive training in theatre. At the end of the war he was still touring Europe as a service entertainer.

It was inevitable that when Jerry returned to Canada he would look to a re-establishment of the show as a civilian operation. After the war he and his wife came to Sidney and he was for a time a member of the staff of The Review. Meeting various associates connected with the Smile Show, he re-opened it. His association with The Review lasted only two weeks. His show business connections have continued brightly.

The slow climb to recognition was broken by the Korean War, when Jerry and three other entertainers toured the armed forces establishments entertaining the troops.

It has only been in very recent years that the Smile Show has been accepted by Victoria. It is now a part of the fabric of tourist entertainment.

This is the story of the Smile Show. It is equally the story of Jerry Gosley. Can they be readily divorced? It is written by John Windsor, whose earlier work, Blind Date, enjoyed a popular and wide acclaim. This will not be so widely accepted, because the subject is of a narrower appeal. It will be read by Gosley fans, of which there are thousands. It will be read by many tourists gaining a new insight into Canada through the eyes of the Smile Show.

It is a pleasant little book, very nicely produced. Only shortcoming of note is the reference to sardines in search of liebestraum. Why a passionate sardine would elect to pursue his enthusiasms while packed in olive oil, I would not know. He would probably need a little more lebensraum to give him air.

Not an earth shaking book, it appealed to this reader for its connection with a familiar figure, a familiar show, the locality and the service during the war.—F.G.R.

"And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked; and they sewed fig leaves together and made themselves aprons."—Gen. 3:7.

When Eve sinned against God in the garden she recognized her nakedness and sought to cover it. Her consciousness of God and her sense of decency demanded her being covered and when God saw her He helped her by making her better clothing out of skins.

The fashion today has changed. While at times it has swung from the sublime to the ridiculous today it has swung in another direction to the obscene. It is a tragic thing when womanhood is reduced to the low place of being half exposed to the public at the whim of the fashion designer and clothing merchants for their profit. Those who wear these immodest evening dresses and swim suits, those who design them and those who are responsible for their manufacturing and sale align themselves against the teaching of the Bible and as such are Godless in their thinking, immoral in their actions and are contributing to the spread of immorality in our country.

There is enough sex crime in our country now. If such costumes as topless bathing suits and topless evening gowns become common the sex crime rate will increase and the innocent will suffer along with those who wear such clothes. If you have any sense of decency and if you are a Christian, now is the time to raise a voice in protest and not when the crime has reached the beaches. ***

PENCILLINGS FROM PENDER

NEW ADDITIONS INCLUDE ORCHESTRA AND "PENDEROSA"

By VIRGINIA SHIRLEY

We feel that the Pender Island orchestra has been hiding its light—or music—under a bushel, and just came out into the Japanese lantern light of the Port Washington Hall the evening of July 1 to pleasantly surprise everyone. Congratulations to Joe Martinich for getting this "combo" together for the occasion. We hope to hear more. It's nice when home talent blossoms so effectively, and Margaret Amies, Terry Martinich, Joe Martinich, and John Copley rate a hearty vote of thanks for their contribution to the Chamber of Commerce's effort for the Confederation Day holiday. And, feeling that one good turn deserves another, H. Geister took his turn at the piano to run off a few toe-tickling tunes. It was a good, agreeable evening.

The new subdivisions on Pender all have their special features and attractions, and new property owners are busy each week-end, working on their cabins and cottages, which will one day blossom into permanent residences. The Penderosa (not to be confused with TV's Penderosa), boasts a mile-long lake, and is almost as extensive as the fabled ranch of the Cartwrights. But it is Boat Nook which has the striped cottage—the only striped cottage in the Gulf Islands. Fin and Ellen Sterling exist in Vancouver weekdays, but they do their real living every week-end on Pender Island, working at their gay little chili bean and burgundy striped cottage. It's like a fairy tale dwelling in a fairy tale setting, and its owners love every stick and stripe of it. Life is fun at Boat Nook.

The active, working members of the Pender Island Golf and Country Club rate a hand for their forward look in planning to erect a club house near the golf course at the Community Centre. It is the dream of the solid citizens of Pender to one day put up a community hall for the use of all residents, in this central and attractive setting, and before any buildings are constructed on the Center, due care should be exercised that they will be an asset, and worthy of the natural beauty of the property.

INCREASE OF 100 PER CENT!

Annual meeting of the Pender Island Cemetery Committee was held in the Hope Bay Hall on Tuesday evening, June 30.

S. P. Corbett presided, and the yearly report was read by Elmer Bowerman, in the absence of the chairman, Donald Grimmer. Mr. Corbett explained the boundaries of the new addition to the cemetery, donated by Elmer Bowerman, with access properly donated by Ashton Ross-Smith. He said there had been considerable delay in getting the area surveyed, owing to boundary difficulties, but that everything was now in order. A vote of thanks was accorded the donors.

The financial sheet showed a good balance, but survey fees would cut into this, and Mr. Corbett said contributions for the upkeep of the cemetery were always appreciated. A motion to increase the low cost of the price of a plot from $5, to $10, was passed. The entire committee was returned for another year.

Annual meeting of the Pender Island Community Centre followed, with the president, S. P. Corbett,

This resulted in another week's expense free trip to Lafayette, Indiana, where he will take another written exam, at Purdue University, with international competition.

SALT SPRING LION SECRETARY BEST IN ZONE

Designated most efficient Lions Club secretary in the zone, Eric Faure, received a surprise award of a transistor radio. The award, made by zone chairman, Jack Tuck, Victoria, and received by Walter Malley, president of Salt Spring Island Lion's Club, was presented to Mr. Faure, secretary of the local club, at a ceremony at Ganges last week.

SMORGASBORD RIVALS LAST YEAR'S AT MAYNE ISLAND

Mayne Island's second annual smorgasbord on Saturday proved as successful as its predecessor. Weather and food were good and at least half of the guests were in costume. About 230 meals were served. Among the guests were Islands M.L.A. David Stupich and his wife who travelled specially from Nanaimo for the event.

Feature of the evening was a display of ballroom dancing by members of the U.D.C. Dance Club. They gave exhibitions of the waltz, samba, rumba, cha-cha, quickstep and tango. The dancers were Gerry Kirby, Gaston Le Port, Lyette Monier, Noreen Ackley and Louie Monier.

TWO CHARGED BY R.C.M.P. AT GANGES

Seven traffic notices were issued last week by Ganges RCMP to juvenile owners of older model cars following a check of brakes, lights, and other equipment.

John R. Hunter, Victoria, was charged with driving without due care and attention, following an accident on the Ganges-Vesuvius Highway when he lost control as he took a corner at 45 m.p.h. He will appear before Stipendiary Magistrate W. S. Anderson in Ganges Police Court on July 11.

Charged with failing to stop at a stop sign, is Dr. A. Francis, Ganges.

FINE WEATHER FAVORS SOUTH PENDER PICNIC

Fine summer weather favored the annual South Pender parish picnic, held on the spacious grounds of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Hutton's home.

Miss Elizabeth Madeley was at the gate, and the affair was opened by Bishop M. E. Coleman at half-past two. The president, Mrs. H. A. Spalding, mingled with the guests, and welcomed them to the tea—served from tables set up under the trees and across the lawn.

Mrs. A. E. Craddock did a land-slide business at the white elephant stall, and Miss Sybil Conery sold plants and nursery stock. The children's "bran dip" was in charge of Mrs. David Spalding, while A. MacKinnon sold the ice-cream and pop. John Freeman looked after the horseshoe pitch, and Mrs. A. MacKinnon ran the bingo games. Jack Orton was captain of the treasure hunt, which saw Mrs. George Campbell and Bishop Coleman winners of the book prizes.

The sum of $109.58 was realized by the South Pender ladies of the Church of the Good Shepherd.

CABARET DANCE SCORES HOLIDAY HIT ON PENDER

The July 1 cabaret dance, sponsored by the Pender Island Chamber of Commerce, was well patronized, and deemed highly successful by all who attended.

The Port Washington hall was decorated with Japanese lanterns for the occasion, and the local orchestra, consisting of Miss Margaret Amies, piano; Terry Martinich, accordion; Joe Martinich, violin, and John Copley, drums, did much to enhance the pleasure of the dancers, as well as that of those who did not dance, but who came to listen and watch.

Much credit is due Mrs. Olive Auelterlonde and her committee for the excellent arrangements, and the success of the venture. Newcomers and tourists were welcomed, and everyone had a good time, v.s.

30 GRADUATES OVER 300 ATTEND SALT SPRING GRAD CEREMONY

Over 300 relatives and friends crowded the Fulford Hall on Friday evening, June 26, to witness the graduation ceremony of 30 students from the Salt Spring secondary school.

J. Evans, principal, was master of ceremonies, and Mrs. A. J. Hepburn introduced the graduates, some of whom, she said, had been in the school the full 12 years. She spoke very highly of each of her students. Brian Beech presented Mrs. Hepburn with a silver jewel case on behalf of the graduates.

Hall was decorated in carnival style by the grade 11 students at the request of the graduates. Colorful balloons centred the hall ceiling and from this stretched red and white streamers from end to end of the building, while painted balloons with each graduate's name written across, adorned the walls, also colored animals and figures, done by various students.

GUEST SPEAKER

Guest speaker was A. D. Jones, inspector of schools, who was chosen by the graduates to give the graduation address.

Rev. Dr. Norah Hughes of the United Church was called upon to give the invocation.

Scholarships were presented to the following graduates: Judy Valdes, P.T.A. scholarship, presented by Mrs. Fletcher Bennett; Edward Gelman, Royal Canadian Legion L.A. award of $200, presented by Mrs. F. W. Kirkham; Louise Lorentsen, Mrs. J. G. Jensen award.

Present were several very old friends and Mrs. Wilson's other daughters, Mrs. C. J. Brewshaugh and Bridget N. Wilson. Mrs. Wilson came to Ganges from London, England, in 1908 and was married in 1909. Mr. Wilson died in 1955.

Some Views On
Strange Ports Of Call

By THE OLD GULF ISLANDER

Instalment XXXIII LEAVING SPAIN

The weather is getting hot. We take our daily dip in the pool and dry off under the sun and are getting as tanned as a peanut and lazy as a "yaller dawg". So the four of us, Mama G., Dutchie and the Beard and I figure it's time to get the show on the road for the summer circuit while we still have enough energy to pack up and move. We have set May 9 as the day for the Great Exodus and by the time this appears in print in British Columbia, we shall be . . . heavens knows where.

We have enjoyed our three months on the Costa del Sol, even those days when we called it the "Costa de la Lluvia" (rain). Having Dutchie with us has broadened our mobility and being able to get around at will has given us a more comprehensive outlook on the Andalusian life. But we are not fooling ourselves. We realize the language barrier has been a big deterrent in getting to know the native folk as we should have liked to have done.

NEVER STUCK

We have a fundamental grounding in elementary grammar and a limited vocabulary and have little difficulty in making our wants known in the stores, the restaurants and elsewhere in buying or selecting. But we have long since despaired of trying to disentangle the rapid Andalusian outbursts with the clipped word endings. Sometimes when a reply is required to our questions we will ask them to write it, but that often leads to embarrassment for many of the working classes cannot write. But we always have the sign language and are never stuck in daily negotiations.

But without a fluent language mastery we miss so much in our efforts to know and understand the native people about us as we have to rely upon visual and hearsay observations; but even more important is not being able to make social contacts with these happy,

Ed. Ketcham, retired railroadman turned writer, has left with Mrs. Ketcham on a year's cruise to strange lands. They are well known residents of Galiano Island. Mr. Ketcham will send back a lively account of his travels which are certain to entertain his readers.

CAREFREE ANDALUSIANS

We mentioned in a previous article their natural aptitude for singing. But they are also vocal in another direction: they talk, and talk and talk. In the shops, on the streets, in the restaurants and bodegas, at the sidewalk tables — everywhere: talk, talk, talk—men or women or both, they love to chatter.

We were sitting at a sidewalk table having tea one afternoon and asked an English-speaking Spanish lady at the next table what the four old cronies in the corner were talking about so earnestly. She replied in a trice: "women!" So, you see, it doesn't take too much to keep a Spanish talkathon going! And don't you see also what we are missing by not being able to understand the language? You remark to a Canadian "It's a lovely day" and you will likely get a reply "Sure is". But sit down some morning at a table outside Pogo's or Gar Central and remark to an Andalusian at the next table, "It's a fine day", and he will spend the next minute or two agreeing with you and explaining why.

SPANISH PROVERBS

We are reminded of what our friend Senora Gomez told us about a maid she has who always comes back to such a commonplace remark with a Spanish proverb. Here's one: "There's no Saturday without sun, no lane without a turning, no girl without a love affair, no old woman who isn't a bawd." Or she will greet Senora in the morning, "You're as pretty as a meringue", or "Your feet are no bigger than almonds".

With Dutchie we have been able to cover much of the hinterlands between the long Costa del Sol and the protecting mountains and spring is a lovely season in which to see the beauty of its verdure and blossoms. One day we went back from Estapona on the sea to Casares, the little town where two Cesars were born; back from Marbella to Ronda over the breath-taking mountain roads to this old Moorish fortress straddled over a magnificent gorge; to Coin (koyeen'), back of Torremolinos, a charming little village of friendly people; Mijas, back of Fuengirola, which we have described before; Alora, another mountain town back of Malaga and on the way up to the great Chorro dam which gives power to the Malaga district; and water to the farmers in the vega. In these and many smaller villages we have visited affable, charming people—nobody ever too busy to stop and chew the rag.

CATHEDRAL

But best of all we have come to love nearby Malaga with the great Alameda Generalissimo Franco and Paseo del Parque, the beautiful shopping streets of Marquez de Larios and Calle Nueva, its unbelievable maze of adjoining shopping streets, the Alcazaba and adjoining Gibralfaro which were the fortresses and castles of the Moors; the great cathedral with its feeling of friendliness and warmth. This cathedral was started in 1528 on the site of the principal Moorish mosque. The courtyard of the mosque with its grove of orange trees was preserved and still gives sanctuary to the passer-by. The original plan of the cathedral was for two towers. It has one, a lofty impressive pile; but the second one has never yet been built. Malagueños call the building "la manquita", "the little one - armed woman".

Last week we made a special trip to the Church of Victory to see the Madonna of Victory—and therein lies a tale. Toward the end of the 15th century when the Catholic kings were struggling to oust the Moors from Spain, Ferdinand and Isabella were leading the siege before the gates of Malaga, but the spirits of the soldiers were flagging and the attempt seemed doomed. Then as a gift from Archduke Maximilian of Austria, Ferdinand received an image of the Virgin. Next night he had a dream in which the image appeared holding in her hand the palm of victory.

VICTORY
Cheered by the experience Ferdinand related it to his soldiers who rallied and soon the victory was won. The king and queen built a chapel then and there on the spot where their tent had stood and installed the Madonna as patroness of

It is heard as part of the newly expanded Radio International which is broadcast for two hours each Saturday evening. BING AND BOB ON ROAD BEFORE "BABY JANE"

Bing Crosby and Bob Hope have hit the road again, this time "The Road to Hong Kong". Co-starring Joan Collins and Robert Morley, this latest lark takes them through the Orient and into interplanetary space. It will be screened at the Gem Theatre in Sidney this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Dorothy Lamour, without whom the famous pair haven't hit a road since their first "Road to Singapore" 21 years ago, is also co-starred.

As usual, Bing and Bob play a couple of con-men singing and dancing their way around the world. This time, their pursuit of loot takes them to India, Hong Kong, the bottom of the ocean and the top of the stratosphere.

"What Ever Happened to Baby Jane?", the suspense shocker bringing Bette Davis and Joan Crawford together on the screen for

HANDICRAFT EXHIBITION

PLANNED BY GULF ISLANDERS

Wide interest is being aroused throughout the district in the exhibition and sale sponsored by the Gulf Islands Historical Society, which will be presented in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay store from July 17 to 25. The function is not intended to be profitable but solely to introduce to the public the wide variety of outstanding handicrafts now centred on the Canadian Gulf Islands.

the first time, will be shown at the Gem next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Miss Davis stars as the former child star "Baby Jane" Hudson, who outgrew her appeal, suffered a disastrous series of flops as a young leading lady, and now clings to her memories, "cute" mannerisms and little-girl makeup while nursing weird dreams of making a comeback.

Miss Crawford stars opposite her as her sister, Blanche, who spent a bitter childhood in the shadow of Baby Jane, suddenly blooming a beautiful film star winning dramatic acting honors, only to have her career shattered by a crippling accident.

Living in virtual isolation beneath a gathering ominous cloud of brooding violence, Jane cares for Blanche, who is confined to a wheel chair. But Blanche slowly realizes that she is a prisoner, that her eccentric sister is behind the macabre events which are threatening her own sanity.

Featured in the exhibition will be weaving, petit point, quilting and rug making, carvings, jewellery, lapidary work, local paintings, ceramics and pottery. A display of juniper wood finishing and different articles made from driftwood promises to be of outstanding interest.

Each day different demonstrations will be given by talented residents of the islands. On Friday, July 17, and on Friday, July 24, members of the Pender Islands Women's Institute will give a demonstration of quilting. Spinning and weaving will also be demonstrated.

RHODONITE MINE FOUND ON FIFTH TRIP

Smorgasbord supper was held by the Sidney Rock Club on June 25. Following the supper, films taken by O. Mooney of the Victoria gem show were shown. The supper, served by Mrs. G. Doran and helpers, ended the club's meetings until the fall.

On Sunday, June 28, the members travelled to Youbou and Widow Creek to try to locate a mine for rhodonite. This was the fifth attempt to locate the mine, and was successful only when the searchers were about to give up. The rock hounds brought many samples back with them.

The Northern Lights appear in the atmosphere at heights ranging from 50 to 500 miles high.

Expanding National Economy Is Seen By Bank As Product Rises

A Canadian gross national product of at least $57 billion, roughly one-third higher than in 1963, and a population of 21.8 million by 1970 are estimated by the Bank of Montreal in its current Business Review for May.

"It seems quite reasonable to suggest that the Canadian economy is capable of sustaining" an annual rate of growth of 4.1 per cent, the post-war trend says the bank.

"Indeed, in the light of the many favorable factors which appear to be in the offing . . . the actual rate of growth achieved between now and 1970 may well exceed by a substantial margin the average rate experienced so far in the post-war period," the bank states.

These factors are listed as "a higher rate of family formation, a resurgence of capital investment, continued strength of external demand for Canadian products and the cumulative effects of automation and technological change."

POPULATION CHANGES

The B of M's estimate of a population of 21.8 million by 1970, takes into account a number of changes in the composition of the population. While immigration has dropped to about 80,000 a year, from the peak of 282,000 in 1957, the birth rate will rise later in the decade. There will also be a slight decline in death rates.

Changes in the age distribution of the population may have a greater economic impact than the moderate rate of growth would imply, the bank says. The 15 to 24 age groups are expected to grow fastest, with implications for the growth in the size of the labor force, and the demand for accommodation and consumer goods.

There will be only a moderate increase in the 25 to 44 age groups, while the numbers in the 45 to 64 groups should increase much more rapidly. Thus a labor force of some 7.9 million can be expected by 1970, an increase of about 170,000 each year, compared with an average annual increase of only 120,000 since 1957.

G.N.P. HIGHER

A labor force of this size could be expected to produce a gross national product in 1970 well above the figure indicated by a simple projection of the post-war trend, the B of M says. However, "the average number of hours worked per week may fall and in consequence the rise in output per employed person may tend to flatten out. Furthermore, in the light of recent experience, it may not be realistic to assume an average rate of unemployment much below that being experienced at present."

This chart, from the Bank of Montreal's Business Review for May, 1964, traces total output, population and productivity from 1946 and shows the lines of average post-war trends projected to 1970.

Nevertheless, the B of M says that even if average unemployment is higher than today's rates, realization of the other factors in the estimate would place the growth of total output above the post-war trend.

Few Slow Spots As Music Hall Is Under Way For Victoria Season

By FRANK RICHARDS

The smiles showed clearly last week when Jerry Gosley presented the opening show of his new season at Oak Bay. Presented under the overriding title of British Music Hall, the new Smile Show was lively, mostly brisk and lagging in one or two places. It was also an entirely new show and the slow spots will undoubtedly be polished up as time progresses.

Like the music hall on which the show is patterned, it includes a number of offerings which remain in the audience's mind long after the show is over. Others are the padding between these events and remain with the audience for no time at all. Few of the numbers fall into the latter category.

Jerry is a handy animal. For the past several years he has been able to collect a number of younger players for general kicking, but he can still maintain the pace himself. He had no occasion to kick himself for what may prove to be his masterpiece, Capt. Vancouver. As the effigy atop the legislative buildings, he sees the passing show and had the audience howling over his reminiscences.

EXCELLENT AND BRIEF

Not all evening was the pace maintained at that rate. In spots it slowed down to a crawl, but during ensuing evenings the whip will probably bring everything into line.

Shortest pantomime in the world was excellent and brief. One or two short, sharp sketches were notable. On two occasions audience participation was invited but failed to develop. It may be that the audiences have no inclination to respond, but it could also prove that individuals were not quite sure that they were being invited to do so. In either case there is an obvious remedy and Gosley is long enough in experience to be able to settle all that.

The dancing numbers were particularly notable for the settings. Design of the stage was the turning point in both cases. Where the anti-climatic entry of Bettie occurs, the effect is gained in a large part from the convincing story of the setting.

TOO QUIET

One-man show was well filled with effects, but lacking in patter. There was the hovering suggestion in the mind of the observer that he was being twisted by the great antiquity of the acts. If he had been given a lively accompaniment to the quick changes the patter would have flattered him instead. The quiet conjurer is never in such de-

CONVERSATION PIECE

BEAUTY OF PROSE TO DEPTH OF DECAY IN TV PROGRAMS

By DORIS LEEDHAM HOBBS

Years ago a well-known headmistress of a private school for girls in Surrey said, "Give children the very best and you will set standards that will last them all their lives. Even if they don't understand everything, they will unconsciously weigh words, behavior and sights, and distinguish between gold and dross."

That statement is embodying just what we are failing to do in Canada. I mean in our teen-age programs on TV and the ridiculous cartoons which are supposed to be attractive to little ones.

I enjoy, and, I believe, children enjoy puppets which are certainly clever and amusing. No child mistakes a puppet for a real human being—and the children's programs I sometimes tune into are conducted at a natural pace and are understood by the smallest viewer.

The cartoons on the other hand—at least the ones I see, are grotesque and far, far too fast for little eyes to follow; full of violence and "tit for tat." There is a lot of improvement needed in that field.

WHY SHOULD IT BE?

Why, why should ugly voices, ungrammatical sentences, and crude behavior be considered suitable for childhood? The best is not too good for them! We all know how children pick up the ugly slang expressions which are dinned into their ears week in week out. I am waiting for the day when specialists in teaching of the very young will have a say in TV programs—for TV is here to stay and is only in its infancy as an art and a science.

I am all for fairy stories, and what a wealth of stories we have in the English language. In fact, fairy stories, fables, nature stories are international and become, or should become, the treasure store of every mother, grandmother and aunt. I am sure that baby-sitters who can tell stories "have an edge" on those who only read their stories.

Among the rather strange collection of books I brought from the Old Country many, many years ago is "The Art of Story-Telling" by Marie L. Shedlock, with a preface by Prof. John Adams, Chair of Education, London University. He states in his preface that "Dramatic Joy" is put in the forefront in the aim of the story-teller, if he is indeed a true story-teller. Then comes humor which is really a sense of proportion. Then, says Marie Shedlock, it is advisable to correct certain tendencies by showing the consequences in the career of the hero of the story; this however must be subtly conveyed and inferred rather than emphasized.

Next, by example, not precept, to present such ideals as will sooner or later be translated into action. And, finally, to develop imagination which really takes in all the other points.

When I read of the vandalism in Denmark of the beheading of "The Little Mermaid" I had a pang of sorrow, for in my far off childhood I loved Hans Anderson's story.

Let me quote the tribute to that beloved author written by the Danish author Bjornson.

"Wings you give to my imagination, Me uplifting to the strange and great; Gave my heart the poet's revelation, Glorifying things of low estate.

When my child-soul hungered all unknown With great truths its needs you satisfied; Now, a world-worn man, to you I owe That the child in me has never died."

Anacortes Takes Day Off As National Holiday Is Observed And Commercial Centres Close Up Tight

Longest established ferry link to aboard the ferry is July 4. On Saturday most of the 8,000 population of the American city were out. In Canada, suggested a wag, to enjoy the normal commercial day there. The journey is attractive whether the day chosen is a holiday or not.

The Anacortes ferry has been offered as a one-day tourist trip for almost as long as it has operated. Tourists may travel aboard the ferry steamer and return on its westbound trip, or they may travel on an early ferry and return later in the day.

Only day on which the tourist might be better advised to remain

ALIKE YET DIFFERENT

The steep climb of the shingle beach is set off against the descent of the forests to the very waves of the sea. Each island is alike, yet every island is different. In the San Juan archipelago there are 172 islands. Some are inhabited and some are not. They range from the outcrop of rock with its one tree to the settlements of Orcas and San Juan, where large numbers of people make their homes.

The ferry swings in to meet the diminutive wharfs, where it discharges cars and picks up others. Although the fleet is far older than that operated by the B.C. Ferry Authority, the Washington State Ferries are maintaining a service introduced many years before the Canadian operation.

For years the service has invited tourists to take a day trip about the land. The traveller may decide to ferry at Anacortes and remain there for a time. Alternatively, he may simply board the vessel, to enjoy the return trip without disembarking at Anacortes.

At one time the intending traveller to the downtown area had little to do but walk in. Since that time the new accommodation has been opened and the downtown area is about three miles away. It is a fair hike for anyone, particularly in view of the anticipated walking around in the city.

A LIFT TO TOWN

On Saturday buses were running on Sunday schedules, which means rarely, indeed. A member of the ferry staff came to the rescue and offered a lift into town. A student at the University of Washington during the winter months, he is typical of the staff which augments the regulars during the summer. He promptly offered the use of his own car, as soon as he came off shift he drove into the sleepy city.

The city was quiet. Most taverns were open, and the community is well supplied with refreshment, but the drugstores were closed with one exception.

The hotel restaurant was open. Hotel staff were helpful and courteous. The hotel is several decades older than its Sidney contemporary. It is of masonry construction, as is about half the city. While they did not apologize to an Englishman for celebrating Independence Day, they did their best to compensate for its shortcomings.

NOT TOO LONG

Brief view of the town did not take too long. Larger than Beacon Ave. in Sidney, Commercial St. was built with greater vision. It is broader and boasts a large number of brick and concrete buildings.

Japan's "Rivers Of Humanity" Awe Visitor From Sidney

World Traveller Back Home

"Rivers of humanity" and traditional old buildings giving way to modern complexes awed and impressed a Sidney visitor in Japan last year.

Frank L. Godfrey, 9506 Lochside Drive, recently returned home from a world tour. He visited Japan last October and in detailed writings recorded his impressions of the country, its people and its changing position in the modern world. He arrived at Yokohama on October 3, 1963, and was met by an official of the Japan tourist bureau. From this "terrific" seaport with its "magnificent" harbor, Mr. Godfrey was driven by limousine to Tokyo.

ALMOST ONE CITY

It was almost one city, as there seemed no end or beginning of either city," he wrote. "Hustle and bustle are the watchwords in Japan."

Immediately on his arrival at the Ginza Hotel in downtown Tokyo, Mr. Godfrey was awed by the number of people.

"I was thunderstruck by the terrific turbulence of pedestrian and vehicular traffic. The traffic is amazing."

Preparations for the 1964 Olympic games were underway everywhere, said Mr. Godfrey. New railroad was under construction which will whisk visitors between Kobe and Tokyo at 150 miles per hour. He saw sections of this railroad during his travels in Japan—bridges, viaducts and level rights-of-way.

PASSING SIGHTS

On his second day in Japan, Mr. Godfrey and the party he was with travelled by train to Nikko. They passed "through densely-packed industrial areas, giving way to suburban and rural farmlands, rice paddies (oceans of them)." They transferred to buses at Nikko and visited one of the local farms, later travelling 8,000 feet up Nikko Mountain on a "tortuous" switchback road where, said Mr. Godfrey, there were no straight-stretches longer than 100 feet.

On this mountain they toured a shrine built in the 16th century.

tor from another country is the plaque. Commemorated are those who died in the Great War, 1917-1918.

Friendliness of the community was exemplified when a hotel clerk called a cab for our return to the ferry. A harassed "Doug" loaded us into a hard-working Galaxie and discharged us at the wharf. The taxi driver then relaxed and explained that he spent many holidays in Canada. His passengers left with a pleasant experience of his city.—F.G.R.

The carvings in these shrines are purely fantastic in execution and design, with demons, dragons, mythological birds of paradise, monkeys and other objects, said Mr. Godfrey. During his stay in Japan, the Sidney visitor toured several manufacturing plants and was impressed by the strides being made.

AFTER HER SHARE

"It is evident that Japan is out to capture her share of world trade," he wrote, "and not with cheap goods either."

"The economy of the country is going up by leaps and bounds. There is a very great sense of well being and everyone appears prosperous."

The seemingly endless mass of people caused him to comment on this several times in his monologue.

"The human traffic would give the impression that some dire calamity had occurred and people were fleeing for safety, yet it is the daily routine—just rivers of humanity going and coming. Where the tubes and overhead trains disgorge their human cargoes, it is a solid mass oozing out of the station."

BEWILDERED

"The more I see of Japan the more bewildered I get."

He also wrote of ultra-modern new buildings—beautiful buildings—that are rising everywhere.

"Not tuppenny buildings either. They are costly and ultra-modern in every respect; factories are going up everywhere, even into the country where 'farms' and 'paddies' used to be operated."

But Japan was one relatively short stop on a long trip. He visited many parts of the Far East, Near East and Europe.

ADVICE

His advice to persons from this country contemplating a similar trip: "If one does not desire to see misery and starvation, malnutrition, nakedness, disease and death, he will avoid India, the fabulous and mysterious. And Egypt, the land of the outstretched begging hands. For my money, Japan is the cleanest, most courteous, most interesting land friendliest land."

No Nuclear War Witnesses Told At Alberni Convention

Jehovah's Witnesses returned home Sunday night from their four-day convention at Alberni. Ralph Reeves, supervisor for the Sidney congregation, said that the convention took on an international flavor as delegates arrived from South Africa, Pakistan and the United States.

Peak attendance of 1682 was reached Sunday afternoon when Reginald Arnett, convention manager, delivered his public address entitled: "Peace Among Men of God Will or Armageddon—Which?"

The speaker declared that for over 1,000 years it has been very easy for Christendom to sing "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace to men of good will," but history shows that this has not promoted world peace. During the last 3,426 years, to the end of the Second World War in 1945, there have been only 268 years of world peace, he said.

Thus more than 3,000 years were years of war in which upward of 8,000 peace treaties were broken. Because of now having on hand the hydrogen bomb, a third world war is talked up as a thermonuclear Armageddon, he said.

"However," Mr. Arnett declared, "according to the Bible, Armageddon will not be a nuclear war but rather a show-down fight by Jehovah God, the sovereign ruler of the universe, against all world rulers. After this will follow the 1,000 year reign of Christ, creating a paradise earth on which men of good will can live in everlasting peace and happiness."

On Friday, a baptism service was conducted by Ernest Adamson, a circuit supervisor. Total of 20 witnesses were ordained as ministers of God and as a symbol of their dedication vows were completely immersed in water.

Improvements To Fulford Community Hall Planned

A recent business meeting of the Fulford Athletic Club resulted in further plans for improvements for the Fulford Hall.

The present entrance to the hall is inadequate, and with the popular roller skating all winter months, more room is needed for a changing room and other facilities.

"We intend to build approximately 48 by 36 foot area, pulling the present entrance down," said Bob Akerman.

CHIVALRY

A male instinct which prompts a man to protect a woman from every man but himself.

Akerman. "That will give us a large lounge, dressing rooms, etc., and a concession bar, and a balcony above."

It will also give 500 square feet more to the main hall floor. The senior Skating Club have donated $50 towards the new entrance fund and sums will be added to this as community events bring in proceeds.

The work will start about October, under the winter works program. In the lounge of the proposed new entrance, the members are planning to have a glass showcase to hold the trophies won by various teams in the past, also a place for the plaque with the names of the war victims of Salt Spring Island.

The Fulford Hall committee is combining forces with the Athletic Club to put Fulford's Pirate Day on August 8 over the top. On this day, there will be a huge beef barbecue, concessions and booths on the athletic field. Here will be a tournament between Duncan, Victoria and Salt Spring ball teams, besides other sports during the day. Proceeds from this will go to the entrance fund for the hall.

BARNACLE BALL CLOSSES OFF DAY AT GALIANO

Following the Fiesta on Galiano Island on July 4, a Barnacle Ball was held in the Galiano Hall in the evening. The ball was arranged by Miss Margaret Horne, of Vancouver, who spends her holidays on the island with her parents. She was assisted by several others, including Don Robson and Bob Bambrick.

Bob loaned an doperated his hi-fi record player for the evening, marking another milestone in the history of the oldest club on the island. Bob is the third generation of his family to participate in activities in the club.

A record number of young people came out to the candle-lit hall to end a successful day on Galiano.

FIESTA AT GALIANO IS BIG SUCCESS AS BUSINESS BRISK

Annual Galiano Salmon Fiesta was held at the Montague Marine Park on July 4, with visitors and islanders all patronizing the open kitchen.

Chef Tom Carolan was up bright and early to begin cooking the salmon in its individual foil wraps, and the gold-foil potatoes over the charcoal grill. Assisting the chef were Steve Riddell, and a host of pretty girls, who came over to the island for a holiday, but turned to and worked like Trojans. Among them were the Wintemute girls, the Anderson girls, Susan Prior, Jane Taylor, and several more.

Hot dogs were handled by Mrs. Fred Robson and her assistants. Mrs. Ches Williams worked very hard all day in many places. Others doing invaluable jobs were Hubert Pelzer, Norman Russell, Mary Pelzer, Irine Lee, Bette Graham, Derry Barner, Nora Marshall, Mrs. W. Kolosoff, and Miss Beth Gillanders, who did a fine job of the children's games, assisted by seven of her pupils from her school in Brighouse.

The prize of the day, a pair of binoculars, was won by Dr. G. Clifford Carl, director of the provincial museum in Victoria, who came up in "Carlsark" with his wife and family for the day.

During the day several beautiful mermaids visited the Fiesta. This is the second time these mermaids have visited the land for a short while on Fiesta day, and it is hoped they will come again next year.

Mr. Carolan warmly commended those who worked hard to help make the day a success.

All men are created equal—and endowed by their creator with an insatiable urge to become otherwise.
